SANGER

RICHARD SANGER, progenitor of the family in New England was of Anglo-Saxon ancestry. He was a blacksmith and sailed from Southampton, England in the ship "Confidence" in 1638. He settled in Sudbury, Massachusetts where he took the oath of fidelity in 1647 and moved to Watertown in 1649. During King Philip's War he was on guard duty in Watertown where he died in 1690. He married Mary Reynolds, daughter of Robert and Mary Reynolds of Boston.

NATHANIEL SANGER, son of Richard and Mary (Reynolds) Sanger, was born in Watertown February 14, 1651 and died in 1734 in Woodstock, Connecticut, at that time a part of Worcester County, Massachusetts. He was a farmer and blacksmith and lived at various times in Sherborn, Roxbury and Petersham. He served as a soldier in King Philip's War.

He married in 1695 Mary Cutter, daughter of Richard and Elizabeth (Williams) Cutter. She was baptized in Cambridge, Massachusetts in 1657 and died in Woodstock November 19, 1711.

SANGER

Eleazer Sanger, son of Nathaniel and Mary (Cutter) Sanger, was born in Watertown March 6, 1697 and died in Keene, New Hampshire March 31, 1761. He settled first in Hardwick and later in Petersham from where he moved to Keene in 1753 and is listed as an original proprietor. He married June 24, 1731 Mary Jackson. She was born in 1701 and died March 31, 1783.

Abner Sanger, son of Eleazer and Mary (Jackson) Sanger, was born in Hardwick March 12, 1739 and died in Keene September 30, 1822. He was a Tory during the Revolution and when the Continental Congress passed a Resolve on March 14, 1776, recommending that all persons not willing to defend the cause of the United Colonies should be disarmed he and twelve other citizens of Keene refused to sign the so-called Association Test. At a Tory trial held at a special session of the court at Keene in June 1777 he furnished a bond for five hundred pounds for his good behavior.

In 1790 he moved to Dublin, New Hampshire and in 1799 returned to Keene where he remained for the rest of his life. He married Elizabeth Johnson who was born in November 1767 and died in Dublin March 19, 1799.

ABNER SANGER, son of Abner and Elizabeth (Johnson) Sanger, was born in Keene April 19, 1788 and died in South Danvers, Massachusetts April 16, 1867. He came to Danvers as a young man and found employment as a clerk in a grocery store. In a few years he acquired an interest in the business and continued as part owner until 1828 when he sold out to his partner, J. B. Pierce.

He took an active part in fraternal, military and civic affairs. In 1817 he became a member of Essex Lodge F. & A.M. and later in that year transferred his membership to Jordan Lodge in Danvers which he served for a number of years as secretary. He was an original member of the Danvers Light Infantry, Fifth Massachusetts Regiment which was organized in 1818 and in May of that year he was elected first Ensign and commissioned by Gov. John Brooks. He was promoted to Lieutenant April 14, 1818 and to Captain on May 10, 1820. He served as town treasurer of Danvers in 1849.

Abner Sanger married December 27, 1811 Sarah Herrick.

Augustus Herrick Sanger, son of Abner and Sarah (Herrick) Sanger, was born December 19, 1812 in Danvers, Massachusetts where he died January 9, 1892. He was a last maker and married November 24, 1836 Martha Stevens, daughter of Ebenezer and Lucy (Herrick) Stevens. She was born in Boxford, Massachusetts November 5, 1813 and died in Peabody, Massachusetts February 28, 1896.

Charles Augustus Sanger, son of Augustus Herrick and Martha (Stevens) Sanger, was born in Danvers July 26, 1847 and died in Peabody May 14, 1905. He was for many years engaged in the insurance business in Peabody and married March 16, 1871 Catherine Wright, daughter of George and Roxanna (Besse) Wright. She was born December 13, 1846 and died September 1, 1925.

SANGER

FRANK HERRICK SANGER, son of Charles Augustus and Catherine (Wright) Sanger, was born October 27, 1873 in Peabody where he died June 9, 1924. He received his education in the Peabody schools and found his first employment as an office boy in the Warren National Bank where he remained until 1899 when he became bookkeeper for a prominent leather manufacturer, Nathan H. Poor, in Peabody. Here he learned the leather business in all its branches and within a year became a stockholder in the concern which was one of the oldest and best known in the industry. It was originally Hutchinson and Poor and at the time Mr. Sanger became a partner the name of the firm was changed to Nathan H. Poor and Company.

Mr. Sanger was one of the leading and most public spirited citizens in Peabody of his day and took an active part in business, civic and public affairs in the community. He was a director of the Peabody Co-operative Bank and a member of the finance committee of the town of Peabody. He was a trustee of Peabody Institute and a director and president of the Peabody Chamber of Commerce. He was a member of the Second Corp Cadets, Massachusetts State Militia in Salem and widely known in fraternal circles, being a member of Jordan Lodge, F. & A.M., Salem Chapter, R.A.M., Salem Council R. & S.M., Winslow Lewis Commandery, Knights Templar and Aleppo Temple A.A.O.S.M.S. He was also a member of Peabody Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the Rotary Club, Peabody Club, Homestead Golf Club, the Salem Club, Colonial Club of Salem, the Corinthian Yacht Club of Marblehead and the Boston Athletic Association. In politics he was a Republican and an active member of the Congregational Church.

EAMES

THOMAS EAMES, immigrant ancestor, was born in England about 1618 and died in Framingham, Massachusetts January 25, 1680. There is no record of the names of his parents or the place of his birth. He is said to have arrived in America in 1634 and settled in Dedham where he was a proprietor in 1640. In 1652 he operated a water-mill on the bank of the Mystic River between Charlestown and Medford and in 1659 moved to Cambridge where he bought eight acres of land east of the Common. He sold this property to Nicholas Wyeth in 1664 and moved to Sudbury where he rented Pelham Farm. In 1669 he obtained a grant of land in Framingham and built the homestead on the southerly slope of Mount Wayte. Here a terrible tragedy befell him and his family when, during King Philip's War the Indians attacked his home and murdered his wife and five of his children. Four other children were carried into captivity. A tablet marking the spot is inscribed: "Here stood the house of Thomas Eames burned by the Indians in King Philip's War Feb. 1, 1675-76." The General Court awarded him two hundred acres of land as compensation for his loss. He became active in local affairs in Framingham and served as selectman in 1678 and as a member of the first meeting house building committee.

He married (first) Margaret, whose surname is unknown. She died in 1660. He married (second) in 1662 Mary Blandford.

NATHANIEL EAMES, son of Thomas and Mary (Blandford) Eames, was born in Sudbury December 30, 1668 and died January 1, 1746. He was about ten years old when he was captured by the Indians and after four months in captivity managed to escape and find his way home. He married Anna, whose surname is unknown. She died March 12, 1743.

DANIEL EAMES, son of Nathaniel and Anna Eames, was born in Framingham March 20, 1711/12. The date of his death is not recorded. He settled in Holliston and married September 21, 1738/9 Silence Lealand. She was born May 31, 1722. The date of her death is not recorded.
